

MacArthur's Instructions Anticipated

While the South Korean Third Division's spearheads rammed up to the border, the bulk of the division's troops moved into Chungmumjin at 5 p. m. Friday, the airman said. Chungmumjin lies five miles south of the parallel. The South Korean division had dashed northward 73 miles along the east coast from recaptured Uichin through Samchok in 24 hours to reach the border. There was no indication up until a late hour Friday night as to whether Allied ground forces would receive orders to continue their pursuit of the beaten foe onto North Korean territory.

SUCH INSTRUCTIONS were awaited as American and South Korean troops closed in for the final "kill" against the remnants of North Korea's once-mighty invasion army.

Thronging flocks of Allied planes incessantly blasted and raked wildly fleeing Red units wherever they could be found.

Above liberated Seoul, U. S. Marines closely pursued Communist troops retreating from the capital along the road north to Uijongbu, 18 miles south of the Parallel.

Several hundred Red soldiers, seeking to shake off the pursuit, counter-attacked the Leathernecks. The resultant fighting raged only four miles away from the capital building where MacArthur was handing over Seoul to the South Korean government.

Three American Army divisions, meanwhile, rammed lengthening armor-tipped spearheads toward Korea's southwest coast as they chopped into ever smaller segments the thousands of Red troops trapped in that area.

An Eighth Army field headquarters communique, issued at 7:30 Friday evening, announced that U. S. Second Division forces had sent one column dashing to within 11 miles of the west coast.

This force drove twelve miles northwest from the captured former enemy base of Chonju, and seized Iri, 11 miles east-south-east of Kusan. The latter major port lies on the Yellow Sea along the south side of the mouth of the Kum river.

American 24th Division troops to the north dashed 21 miles southwest from liberated Taegon in little more than 12 hours to teach the rail-highway center of Nonsan. This placed the Americans 24 miles northeast of Kusan and 23 miles southeast of Taegon, also a Yellow Sea port.

Along the south wing of the triple-pronged mopping up drive into the Korean southwest pocket, American 25th Division forces rammed through Kwangju to Piri, 24 miles inland from the west coast.

A "Ton of Gold" certificate has been awarded a registered Jersey cow owned by Wendel Shaw and Nina Thompson of New Holland. The award went to their cow Jolly Bindle Sybil, which has produced 2,174 pounds of butterfat—more than a ton—in four years. The certificate was presented by the American Jersey Cattle Club, from its headquarters in Columbus.

During the test period, Jolly Bindle Sybil produced more than two and one half times as much butterfat as the average dairy cow in the United States. All her tests were checked by both Ohio State university and the Jersey cattle club.

Most dairy cows are discarded before they have completed three years of production. The long life and high rate of production recorded by this Jersey are goals the dairy industry is striving to reach. This cow completed her present record at nine years of age.

MacArthur Weeps As He Gives Seoul To Koreans

impressive as he came to the closing passage: "But deliver us from evil, for Thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory, Forever and ever."

The UN commander and Rhee then clasped hands, as the South Korean president exclaimed: "We admire you. We love you as the savior of our race."

In his speech, accepting the capital from the hands of the commander of those who liberated it, Rhee pledged that his government will avoid a policy of revenge. He said the government will distinguish between those who led and those who followed the Communist aggression, saying:

"THERE WILL BE no witch hunts. Every former Communist has but to confess his sins to be forgiven, that he may work for the good of the Korean people."

MacArthur, making his third visit to the Korean war theater since the Red invasion began June 25, proclaimed that United Nations forces "have liberated this ancient capital city of Korea."

Seoul, he declared, "has been freed from the despotism of Communist rule."

The general pointed out that "53 nations of the earth rose up in righteous wrath and indignation and pledged their full effort" to throw back the Communist aggression.

He termed this concerted action a "spiritual revolution"

against the march of imperialistic Communism.

"It reflects an invincible union of men and ideals against which no material weapons could long prevail," said MacArthur, "and while inevitably force must meet force, it offers the hope for the ultimate peaceful triumph of that spiritual quality without which the human mind cannot produce sound and enduring ideas."

"It is through the spirit that we must save the flesh."

Turning to Rhee, the UN commander declared he was restoring Seoul to the Korean republic, then added:

"IT IS MY fervent hope that a beneficent providence will give you and all of your public officials the wisdom and strength to meet your perplexing problems in a spirit of benevolence and justice, that from the travail of the past there may emerge a new and hopeful dawn for the people of Korea."

After the recital of the Lord's Prayer, MacArthur turned again to President Rhee, saying "my officers and I will now resume our military duties and leave you and your government to the discharge of civil responsibility."

County School Buses Get OK From Patrolman

Pickaway County school buses were reported in "good shape" Friday following a rigid safety inspection by the state highway patrol.

Patrolman Clyde Wells reported that he has inspected all 69 buses being operated in the county and has found "none which must be taken from the road immediately."

"I did find 14 of the buses to be unsatisfactory, however," Wells said. "Those buses need repairs immediately but still are serviceable."

The patrolman returned a clean bill on the remaining 55 school buses, although pointing out that some minor repairs are in order for every one of the vehicles.

"Biggest fault I could find with the vehicles," Wells said, "was lack of proper exhaust systems, poor tires and lack of proper floor coverings."

"IN THE OTHER 55, they all need some little things such as replacing cracked windows, more complete equipment of some sort."

The patrolman explained that most of the bus drivers have a good many years of experience, and no driver has less than two years of experience.

"I found some buses which will have to be replaced next year because they are just about worn out," Wells added.

No Specific UN Directive Expected On 38th Parallel

This resolution as well as the United States position on the future of Korea envisage the partitioning of North Korea by a UN constabulary force until law and order have been restored. The U. S. also will insist that some sort of administrative authority is accorded to the existing regime at South Korea and that Korea be made a member of the UN.

There is an air of mounting expectation at UN as last battles are being fought in Korea. The battle for shaping a UN Korean peace program is slated to begin at Lake Success later today when the key political committee gets down to brass tacks on its detailed work of drafting a blueprint for the assembly.

This 60-member group will have before it a resolution prepared by Britain in consultation with the United States and several small nations. It proposes a nine-power UN Korean commission charged with the task of preparing elections over an extended period for a unified and independent country.

mony from Maj. Gen. Cloyvis Byers, deputy chief of staff. Plans to induct 170,000 men in September, October and November had already been announced. Vinson said that of this group 30,000 are now in uniform. With a new goal of 300,000 inductees this means that by March, 330,000 men are scheduled to be in uniform.

In addition, Vinson announced that the Army will order into service 3200 doctors and 1400 dentists in the next six months. Most of these will be professionals who received their schooling at government expense during World War II but saw little service.

Tarlton Lots To Be Sold, Court Orders

Partition of two Tarlton lots has been ordered by Judge William D. Radcliff in Pickaway County common pleas court.

A petition asking for the partition was filed by Carl C. Kreider, Judge Radcliff's decree gives the plaintiff one-fifth.

Defendants are Fred M. Kreider, G. Beatrice Kreider and Adelaide K. Reid, each one fifth; Elizabeth Lewis, one tenth; Patty Lou Mallard and Sandy Mallard, minors, each one twentieth; Ethel Kreider, a dower in the one fifth interest of Fred M. Kreider.

Mayor Braves All For Big Show

To make sure Columbus does not remain unaware that Circleville plans big doings in October, Mayor Thurman I. Miller plans to invade the capital city soon with placards announcing Circleville Pumpkin Show, Oct. 18-21.

He apparently cares not that the big city to the north probably has an ordinance forbidding the tacking up of placards and posters.

FOOD EXPORT SLUMP

FARM crop exports in the government's fiscal year 1950, ended June 30, were lower in value than agricultural imports. This had not been the case since 1942.

In the last fiscal year imports increased 6 percent, whereas the export cut back from the 1949 figure was 21 percent. Before the war U. S. agricultural exports had been declining, and they fell off more sharply in the war years because the seas were infested by German submarines.

But in the four years after the war the U. S. was a heavy exporter of food, in which wheat and flour topped the list. The U. S. government paid for most of these exports.

The decline in exports in 1950 is regarded as evidence that Europe is producing more bread grains for its own use. Slump in exports of American wheat and flour topped 47 percent. The result is that cotton has again become this country's No. 1 export crop.

Principal agricultural imports are sugar, coffee, wool, rubber, cocoa, hides and skins. These have mainly an indirect effect on consumption of subsidized domestic farm products.

FOR REAL INTELLIGENCE

CLASSIC example of how not to run an intelligence service is the case of the enlisted man who detected the approach of Japanese planes toward Pearl Harbor, to whom no attention was paid. Intelligence reports that get buried in lower echelons, instead of being passed on to leaders forthwith, are of no use in emergencies.

The chain of command functions well enough in some operations, but as concerns intelligence, it works against results. An intelligence report, when it reaches a general or an admiral, is worse than useless if it is garbled and out of date.

Rear Admiral Zacharias, head of naval intelligence has made vigorous criticism of intelligence methods. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who succeeds Admiral Hillenkoetter as head of Central Intelligence, ought to keep in mind that "too little and too late" applies in intelligence reports as well as to troops, ships, planes and guns.

When Korean hostilities are ended and Congress gets around to investigating various phases of our being caught out there, the failure of intelligence, both in Japan and at Washington, ought to be a prime subject for elucidation. Either intelligence was poor, or top-level strategists, which would include those who made policies at the White House and State Department, did not know how to evaluate and make use of it.

Perhaps a man is quieter as he grows older because he has more to keep quiet about.

Inside WASHINGTON

MARCH OF EVENTS

Half Million Red Troops
Now Massed in Manchuria

Red China Interference in Korea Soon Seen Unlikely

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Army Intelligence says the Chinese Communists now have 500,000 troops massed in Manchuria but that it isn't likely they will enter the Korean war within the next six months.

The reason is that Mao Tze-tung, the Chinese dictator, has informed Moscow that he will not send his troops against the Americans until they have achieved "parity" with U. S. weapons.

That means that the Russians must equip the Chinese divisions with the latest World War II and post-World War II weapons before they will move, and this cannot be done in less than six months. If it can be done at all.

The Chinese fought their own civil war almost entirely with Japanese rifles and artillery. Part of the weapons were accumulated piecemeal before and during the big war, and a great quantity was turned over to the Chinese by the Russians when the Japs surrendered in Manchuria.

The Russians have proved in Korea that they can pour European arms into the Far East in quantity, but Mao's order would be much the biggest they have yet tried to fill. The intelligence report, however, is that Moscow has agreed to Mao's terms.

● HIGH COST OF DEFENSE—Those who want to know what happened to the billions of dollars appropriated for defense since V-J day can find part of the answer in rising prices.

Rep. Harry R. Sheppard (D) California, supplied some very convincing figures to the House. Here are a few:

Before World War II, it cost $150 a year to feed a soldier. Now it costs $365. Clothing and equipment for each service man costs $377. Ten years ago they cost $122.

These Days

The Viet-minh government in French Indo-China must move fast now or it will lose its opportunity to establish a Soviet state in that country. As long as the fighting in Korea was uncertain, Soviet China could hold off, awaiting results and playing for its seat in the United Nations by encouraging the American State Department to believe that a deal could be made. Now that it is certain that the 38th Parallel will be reached by General MacArthur's forces, the Communist groups in various Asiatic countries will begin to doubt the power and authority of Soviet Russia.

The Russians regard the word as a weapon of war. Jacob Malik's speeches before the Security Council were munitions for strengthening the revolutionary forces in Asia. The fact that Malik could speak as he did on American soil meant something different in Asia from what it did in the Western World.

In America and Europe, it is understood that the United Nations is a free forum, enjoying extraterritorial privileges, and that the United States has no greater rights and privileges before it than any other member of the Security Council of the General Assembly. While Malik spoke as a representative of his country, he enjoyed the immunities provided by the charter.

In Asia, such fine distinctions are not normal to their experience. Just as no Asiatic, without Western experience, can understand our freedom in reference to our President and other public officials, so Malik's vituperations of the United States, while on American soil, implied weakness on our part. It showed that Russia felt that it was superior to the United States. When to that was added the appearance of physical weakness against such a country as Korea, the assumption was that the United States had become degenerate, as the Russians say we are, and that the Western world was a push-over in a war.

Then came General MacArthur's victories. Friends of mine of long standing, who have just returned from China, Formosa and the Philippines, have told me that the change of attitude was immediate. In fact, Chiang Kai-shek has had difficulties with his guerrillas in China who believe that now is the time to strike. Similarly in the Philippines, the Huks, who have been waiting for the Chinese Communists to take Formosa and then attack the Philippines, are discouraged.

It is for this reason that Ho Chi-minh, the head of the Viet-minh Communists in Indo-China, is impelled to move as swiftly and as forcibly as he can, expecting assistance from Mao Tze-tung of China. Should the Korean war be over, the American forces now engaged there could in alarming numbers be shipped and flown to Indo-China. He would prefer to effect his revolution there before this can actually happen.

The defeat of Russian and Indian efforts to bring about the recognition of Soviet China by the United Nations is a whole some factor in this situation. As long as the United Nations will not recognize changes in control of a country effected by either war or revolution, the expansion of the Soviet world will be arrested. Change by revolution and civil war can be a subterfuge for actual conquest of a country by Soviet Russia.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

PERRY laughed at Philip's and Sanna's delight in inviting Anne and Adam to lunch. She went back down to the telephone. Anne answered immediately and Perry passed on the invitation. Anne gave a little crow of delight.

"I was dying to see what sort of people you were living with, and how they were treating you," she admitted frankly. "On account of because if they aren't being extra-special swell to you, you're coming straight back home with us, do you hear me?"

"I do, and the hotel walls are so thin probably half the guest-list hears you, too," Perry laughed and gave them instructions, and then stood for a long moment after the connection had been broken, staring at the telephone, her heart beating loudly.

So now she was to come face to face with Adam. She had known that it was inevitable. It could not be otherwise, since Adam was married to her beloved sister. But she had hoped for more time than this. More time to put her love for him out of her heart and to face the thought that he was her brother-in-law, and could never be anything more. But the moment was here and she must face it. She must grasp her courage with all the strength she possessed, so that neither Adam nor Anne could ever suspect.

She went back to her patient and forced herself to be outwardly gay and matter-of-fact, and when at last she heard the sound of their car in the drive, Philip laughed and said, "Run along, do! I'd like to meet them later."

"They'll want to meet you, too," Perry assured him, and sped down the stairs and out into the warm sunshine.

The car she had known so well, and in which she had ridden so many times with Adam, was just coming to a halt on the cement apron beyond the porte-cochere, and Anne, seeing Perry, gave a little childish cry of delight and tumbled out, racing to fling herself into Perry's arms.

Adam grinned and waited, and when the sisters' first excitement at seeing each other again had ebbed a little, he said warmly, "Hello, Perry. You're looking wonderful."

Matter-of-factly he bent his head and kissed her, and Perry's heart gave a wild, upward leap and fell flat on its silly face. And to disguise her emotion, she caught Anne by the shoulders and turned her about, eyeing her with pretended sternness.

"What, no black eyes or broken bones? I thought you said he was abusing you."

Anne laughed, and the look she gave Adam was so warm and sweet and intimate that Perry felt guilty at having seen it.

"Oh, the brute's smart enough to beat me where it doesn't show," she caroled gaily, and turned to look out over the rolling lawn, tree-dotted; the great mounds of flowering shrubbery and the glimpse of the perennial garden beyond. "Hi, this is really something! Migosh, suppose they could use a new kitchen-maid? No wonder you came here to work."

Sanna was in the doorway, smiling, eager, exquisitely lovely in a soft blue crepe frock, her hair swirled into a smart and becoming coiffure, her eyes eager and warm.

"Sanna, this is my sister, Anne," said Perry proudly, and saw the two smile at each other with the beginning of friendship. "And my brother-in-law, Adam—Dr. and Mrs. Forrest. Anne, Mrs. Ellender, my patient's wife."

"I'm so delighted you could come and so very happy to meet you," said Sanna warmly, and there was complete and convincing sincerity in her voice and in her eyes. "But you haven't come to take Perry away, I hope. We couldn't get along without her."

Anne laughed.

"Just as long as we know she's properly appreciated, she can stay," she said lightly. "She's a pretty special person and we have to be sure she's happy and well cared for."

"If we're neglecting her in any way, you point it out to us and we'll mend our ways," Sanna promised gaily. And then as a car turned in at the drive, she said eagerly, "Oh, there's Jay. I told them to lay a place for him, because I was going to make him stay if he came in time."

Jay got out of the car, looking with quick, admiring interest at Anne and then at Adam, and Sanna said eagerly, "Oh, Jay, isn't this wonderful? Perry's sister and her husband have come to lunch. Mrs. Forrest, Dr. McKenzie—and Dr. Forrest."

Perry watched as the two men shook hands, taking each other's measure, and she knew instinctively they liked each other at sight. She was so shaken and confused at seeing Anne and Adam like this that she had a sort of confused impression of a lot of laughter and chatter, and then they were in the house, and Sanna was saying warmly, "Perry, take Dr. and Mrs. Forrest into the living-room and have a little visit with them. I'll go up to Philip with Jay, and then we'll have lunch."

Anne looked about the big, luxuriously appointed living-room with its wide picture windows framing magnificent views, and as she turned, she nodded, awed and impressed.

"Now why the heck didn't I take up nursing so I could spend my declining years in such luxury as this?" she mused.

Perry laughed and hugged her.

"I resent that 'declining years' crack," she said sternly. "I'm exactly two years older than you are, my gal. And don't ever let her tell you anything different, Adam."

"I promise I won't," said Adam lightly.

The sun was just rising over the African hills, according to Edward Ryan, when a famous banker unwittingly passed two hungry lions hiding in the jungle underbrush. "Nobody can put the bite on a banker before ten o'clock in the morning."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Congress is home taking bows on the splendid condition of the nation.

The way they divide the honors is, the Republicans say "it would be worse if it wasn't for us" and the Democrats say "it would be better if it wasn't for them."

But we do not anticipate any difficulty in reelecting our boy. He's not one of those fellows who always is shouting for economy in government and more attention to domestic affairs.

Of course custom dictates that members of Congress come home and campaign for office, but it seems such a waste of time with the CIO-AFL scratch sheet already out.

Our own idea is that they stay in Washington and we cast one ballot for Phil Murray and let him notify the winners.

This would save all the expense of campaigning, polling places, election night parties and the morning-after-aspirin.

'School Of Politics' Urges Women Take More Active Parts In Every Election

Warren Woman Leads Forum

Importance of women political workers during election time was stressed in a forum in Circleville Memorial Hall Thursday afternoon.

Conducted by Mrs. Jean Blair of Warren, the "school of politics" stressed not only the need for women to get out and vote, but the necessity of them helping to get out other voters as well as to take an interest in party precinct work.

Mrs. Blair, who conducts political schools for women throughout a 21-county area, stressed the importance of precinct workers in all elections, national as well as local.

She told her audience that both political parties have similar structures which she described as "shaped like a pyramid."

The base of the pyramid, she said, was made up of the precinct committee men and women. The state central committee came next in importance and the national committee formed the point of the pyramid.

She recommended that in the 1950 elections precinct committee chairmen avail themselves of ten assistants each. Mrs. Blair told her listeners that Republicans lost their last election in Ohio by the equivalent of one voter in each precinct.

She gave the ABCs of precinct workers as: Call on your neighbors, serve your neighbors, remember birthdays and anniversaries; keep informed and don't argue politics.

Mrs. Blair displayed a sample ballot and instructed her listeners in voting details.

The "school of politics" was preceded by a covered dish luncheon attended by about 125 women. It was sponsored by the Pickaway County Republican Women's Club.

Mrs. Ralph Hosler, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. Eugene Borer at the piano when she presented three musical selections.

Mrs. Beryl Stevenson, president, introduced Mrs. H. O. Caldwell who presented the wives of several Republican candidates, each of whom gave short talks. They were Mrs. Fred Tipton, Mrs. H. E. Louis, Mrs. George Marshall, Mrs. Francis Douglas, Mrs. George Bender, Mrs. Ted Brown, Mrs. Roger Tracy and Mrs. Don Ebricht.

Speakers' table decorations included roses in a tall silver vase as center arrangement. Low cornucopias of dahlias and chrysanthemums and evergreen streamers completed the Fall motif.

Little Change In Ratio Seen

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The Federal Crop Reporting Board publishes its monthly report on farm prices late today.

Although the official report is kept under lock and key until that time, it is believed that the parity ratio, which marks the relationship between what farmers pay for production and what they receive for the things they produce, will show little change from last month.

The August parity ration was favorable to farmers, at three points higher than the base year.

CHS SEEKING 21ST WIN

Cook, Redman To See Duty Against Wilmington Crew

Two new faces have been added to the Circleville Tiger starting lineup for its South Central Ohio League opener Friday here against Wilmington's Hurricane.

New additions to the CHS starting force will be Harry Redman, 170-pound guardsman, and Jim Cook, 185-pound right halfback.

Cook, new to the Red and Black athletic scene this year, is to start at the blocking back spot to replace Phil Heise, who has been benched with a wrenched knee.

Redman, formerly a replacement at tackle for the Tigers, will replace Lowell Thomas in the lineup.

Thomas suffered a badly fractured nose last week during Circleville's trip to Lancaster and was ordered to the hospital early this week to have the proboscis put back together.

COACH STEVE Brudzinski said both injured boys will dress for the Wilmington tussle, although neither probably will see action.

In addition, Quarterback Jerry Rooney will be going into the league-opener under a handicap. Rooney suffered a cracked rib on his right side—his throwing side—early in last week's contest against the Golden Gales. However, he probably will be played throughout the Friday tilt.

As for the rest of the regular team, Coach Brudzinski pointed out that they are in fine shape for the game.

The team will travel to Warrenton at about 5:30 p. m. Friday for a special pre-game diet offered by the Circleville Booster Club, and will make its first appearance before the fans at about 7:15 p. m. when it will warm up on the field.

Circleville football fans can expect brisk, clear weather for the CHS-Wilmington game. Weatherman John Smith predicted early Friday that the weather will be "good" and that temperatures will hover near the 50-degree mark.

As in its opening season game against Holy Rosary of Columbus, the Tigers again will face a weight disadvantage in meeting the Hurricane.

Rosary's beef proved ineffective against the lightning swift attack of the CHS'ers as the Tigers rolled up an impressive 45-13 margin over the invaders.

HOWEVER, the Rosaryites were easy meat for the Tigers for two reasons—they were unable to move their beef and they lacked experience.

Neither of the factors is expected to be missing in telling quantities from the Hurricane team which will invade here.

The Hurricane will have nearly 10-pounds-per-man advantage in the fracas, while it reportedly is capable of moving about with agility.

In addition, 12 lettermen returned to the team.

Horse-Pulling Contests Set

TROY, Sept. 29—An expected crowd of 5000 will watch some 55 horses compete for $1000 in prizes Sunday when the 16th annual world championship horse-pulling contest gets underway at Miami County Fairgrounds.

A record number of entries, more than 40 lightweights and 15 heavyweights, will vie for honors. They come from Ohio, Missouri, New York, Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana.

Junior Tigers Suffer 27-20 Loss To Gales

Circleville high school's junior football team suffered a 27-20 defeat at the hands of the Lancaster Golden Gales juniors here Thursday afternoon.

The local junior gridder were outwitted in the fracas, although using Coach Dick West's sharp attacks to good advantage to trail by the seven-point deficit in the high-scoring encounter.

Starring for the Tiger juniors in the match were Paul Hill, Ronnie Bennington, Ted Wilkes and Tom Elsea in the backfield. Lancaster opened the game by grabbing the ball at about mid-field and staging a continuous march over the locals into the end zone.

Circleville retaliated shortly afterwards when a Bennington-to-Skinner pass was completed for about 15 yards into the end zone.

LANCASTER again took the initiative after the kickoff to romp to two more TDs over the locals, while the junior Red and Blackers pulled through with another TD pass into the arms of Wilkes to whittle the lead down to 20-13.

The visitors again dominated play after the kickoff to powerhouse their way into scoring territory, while the game ended with Paul Hill totting the leather into the end zone for Circleville from about three yards out.

Circleville's junior team scored on two of its three conversion attempts during the match, once on a run by Hill and again on a pass.

Hatters End Season With Tourney Win

Circleville Top Hat softball team won the Nelsonville invitational tournament championship Thursday night with a 4-3 victory over McArthur.

The Hatters ended their 1950 season with the victory. Other feats by the team this season was winning the district title in Chillicothe and advancing into the semifinals of the state tourney.

Hatter softballers opened its final test with a single in the first frame, although McArthur deadlocked the score with a single in the third.

Bob Moon, Hatter shortstop, rapped out a homerun in the fourth frame with one man aboard to give his team a two-run edge and collect the only extra-base hit of the game.

AGAIN McARTHUR retaliated, however, knotting the count at 3-all in the fifth with a brace of runs. The Top Hat crew broke into the win with a single in the sixth.

Pitcher Kenneth Reed was credited with the win, having allowed McArthur only three hits while whiffing 11.

Double Dose Of Band Music Due At Game

Circleville football fans are to on the receiving end of a double-dose of entertainment Friday when the Circleville Tigers meet the invading Wilmington Hurricane.

In addition to what promises to be a good gridiron battle between the Tigers and the Hurricane, fans will see two bands perform and will meet the parents of this year's Red and Black team.

The parents will take the limelight to open the "parents' night" contest and will be introduced to the fans.

Wilmington's 80-piece marching band will accompany its football team for the game and will give a performance between halves.

The Wilmington units, directed by Roger Borrer, will join the snappy 65-piece Circleville high school marching band prior to the game for a flag-raising ceremony.

Truman Eberly, director of the Circleville band, said the visiting organization would perform first during the halftime intermission. The Circleville band is to deliver a special program during its portion of the half in honor of the aunts.

Color Dispute Cancels Game

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29—Loyola University of Los Angeles early today announced cancellation of tomorrow night's scheduled football game against Teas Western college at El Paso.

The Rev. Charles S. Casassa, president of Loyola, said university officials decide to call off the game after Teas Western officials requested Loyola not to use its two Negro backfield stars in the game.

Phils, Yanks May Win Flags By Doing Nothing

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—For the first time in history, two teams may back into major league pennants today while sitting in a hotel room playing pinocle.

The somewhat weird 1950 baseball season can bubble over with joyous lure for the Philadelphia Phillies and the New York Yankees while their ears and eyes anxiously study radio and television receivers.

For the two are "tie-sure." Each has a magic number of one to worry about. It's up to the other guy to lose today. The Phils and Yankees aren't playing.

The frustrated Phils have a pennant stake in the Brooklyn-Boston doubleheader. One Dodger loss and the Phillies are champions in the National League for the first time since 1915.

The World Champion Yankees are banking on the Cleveland Indians, Lou Boudreau's spoilers galore, to take at least one of their three games with the Detroit Tigers beginning today.

IT WOULD mean pennant number 17 for the New Yorkers, the most achieved by any team in the history of the sport.

Eddie Sawyer's wobbly wonders reached their favorable position under reverse conditions. They were dumped twice again by the New York Giants yesterday by identical 3-to-1 scores.

This was their second double loss in a row to the Durocher-men. Yet they moved up.

The Braves helped them along these lines by coming back to beat the Dodgers, 8 to 4, after Brooklyn had taken the opener, 6 to 5.

Philadelphia leads the Dodgers by three games and has two games left—with the Brooks tomorrow and Sunday. Should Brooklyn win two today these two games over the weekend will really be something. Yet,

Marines To Hunt Pheasants First

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29—Mobilization of some Ohio Marine pilots must await the opening of the Fall hunting season.

Marine Fighter Squadron 244 was to go on active duty Nov. 15, but Brig. Gen. W. O. Brice, head of Marine Air Reserve training, bowed to requests that the pilots be allowed one last crack at pheasant and rabbit.

The hunting season starts Nov.

SMU Gridders Due To Arrive By Air Today

COLUMBUS, Sept. 28—A hard-driving herd of Southern Methodist Mustangs, paced by famed Kyle Rote, flies into Columbus this afternoon for tomorrow's tilt with the Rose Bowl Champion Buckeyes in what promises to be the biggest opener in Ohio State's football history.

Some 81,000 spectators may

15. Mobilization for the pilots is now set for the day following.

jam their way into the big horse-shoe stadium for the biggest opening crowd in Ohio State history as well as the best crowd in the nation for the weekend.

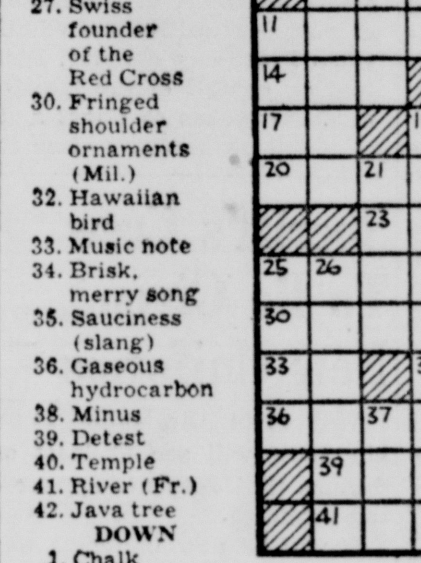

SMU already has a 33-to-13 romp over Georgia Tech as a seasoner, while the Bucks, as yet untried and riddled by graduation, have a flock of new hopefuls who will have a chance to strut their gridiron talent.

The Bucks ended a grueling four weeks of heavy training yesterday and will taper off with a light signal drill this afternoon. The two-score Mustangs, after checking in at their downtown hotel, will head for the stadium to get the feel of the turf.

Winter Kill Of Wheat May Be Curbed By Use Of Potash

Best Cites Missouri Experiment

Yield Boosted By Chemical

Winter killing of wheat can be greatly reduced by using potash during seeding time, Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, declared Friday.

He said that tests made by Missouri College of Agriculture agronomists have brought this conclusion.

These agronomists found that grain yield losses were high when the plants were starving for potash, says the agent. Losses were low when the soil supplied plenty of potash for the grain. Best reported:

"George Smith, of the university's soils department, reports that in one test about 95 percent of the wheat stand was lost through winter killing, when potash was left out of the fertilizer. But adding potash to nitrogen-phosphate fertilizer cut down the losses and the wheat yield averaged 20 bushels per acre.

"Oats yield were boosted as much as 20 bushels an acre on the same soil where the fertilizer contained potash. Barley yields were boosted nearly 1,000 pounds per acre when potash was added to phosphate at the Missouri experimental farm near Columbia.

"The need for potash is heightened by improved crop yields which are removing greater quantities of this nutrient from the soil.

"When soils are acid and receive little nitrogen or phosphate fertilizer, the soil minerals can frequently supply enough potash for the low crop yields obtained. But when lime, nitrogen and phosphate are used, the soil's potash supply does not supply sufficient quantities to meet the needs of high yielding crops. It may then be necessary to use fertilizer carrying potash."

IRON MAIDEN of Nuremburg, medieval torture device, is one of many curiosities and oddities to be seen in Circleville Sunday, when Pickaway chapter, Disabled American Veterans, brings a touring exhibit of the late Robert Ripley's "Believe It or Not" museum pieces to Court and Main streets. The exhibit will be free to the public.

Sheriff's Crew To Be Given New Uniforms

Visitors to Circleville Pumpkin Show will see at least one feature that does not appear on the program.

It will be new uniforms worn by officials of Pickaway County sheriff's department.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the new uniforms are expected to arrive in time for the annual street extravaganza.

County commissioners approved purchase of the new clothing last Spring. Radcliff described them as blue shirts and jackets and gray trousers with a blue serge stripe down the sides. Four uniforms were ordered, he said.

The sheriff said the uniforms will facilitate law enforcement by his deputies, because:

"People just plain pay more attention to an official in uni-

No Gasoline Rationing In Sight, Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The government assured the nation's motorists today that there will be no gasoline rationing during the current emergency.

Interior Department sources, however, said there "shortly" will be a "directive" to the petroleum industry to cut down the quality—reduce the octane—in gasoline available for motorists.

Officials said that motorists will have plenty of "regular" gas, but must do without the "high-powered" kind.

The pending curbs on the production of quality gasoline for civilian use, including commercial air travel, are being forced on the government because of a reported "serious" shortage of high-octane aviation fuels and their ingredients.

One official said that although the shortage is critical, the government feels it can persuade greater production of airplane gas through better distribution of the things that go into high-octane.

The Korean war itself is not expected to drain current supplies and production dry. But should it flare into World War III rationing, would go into effect immediately, they say.

Smoke Is Hard On Asthmatics

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Persons suffering from asthma, heart and respiratory ailments were warned today that there is danger for them in the Canadian smoke pall hanging over much of the Eastern United States.

Washington Health Officer Daniel Seckinger said that smoke is bad for folks with these kinds of ills. It's not the Canadian smoke that the Eastern U.S. population is in danger of inhaling, but local industrial and chimney smoke trapped beneath the thick layer from Canadian forest fires and heavy clouds.

Senator Likes Flowers More Than Tomato

MASSILLON, Sept. 29—As far as U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft is concerned one large basket of flowers in the hand is worth more than one ripe tomato in the chest any day.

At least that's what "Mr. Republican" suggested last night when he revealed that he was "lattered by a juicy tomato while talking to a crowd in Waynesburg Wednesday.

Taft said the tomato struck him with enough force to feel like "a vigorous push" but that he did not see who hurled it.

The Ohio senator pointed out that he was also presented with a large basket of flowers in the same town, and that it helped make up for the tomato.

"Besides," he added, "it didn't splatter much."

Special Feature Is Scheduled

A special feature of this year's Circleville Pumpkin Show will be a performance by the Bailes Bros. and the Echo Valley Boys. Program Director James P.

LOOKING AHEAD

With Charles Weidinger

Women as the buyers of the nation have a highly developed sense of values. Years of bargain hunting have conditioned them so they can see through gaudy wrappings to the essential value of the product. That is why much of the increased income being earned by women in business nowadays is set aside to purchase annuities, endowments, and other forms of life insurance protection. With business women generally retiring at an earlier age than men, their need for such protection is very great and has resulted in the number of women owning life insurance policies today being twice the pre-war figure. The average policy, too, is for a considerably larger amount. Why not talk your policy over with me today?

67th Year—229

Draft Change Asked

Vets, Fathers
Said Needed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey told Congress today that men with dependents and veterans under 26 years of age must be drafted if the nation is to obtain a three-million man armed force.

These proposals were among four basic changes recommended in the Selective Service law by General Hershey in testimony before the House armed services committee. The four proposals were:

1. The length of service of draftees should be extended from 21 months to 30 months. This would consist of six months basic training to be given before the draftee reaches the age of 19, the present induction age, and two years of regular training after that.

2. Changes should be made in the law to permit the drafting of those with dependents.

3. The law should be amended to permit the drafting of veterans under 26 years of age.

4. The acceptability standards of the armed forces should be altered.

THE DRAFT CHIEF testified that at present there is a Selective Service pool of approximately 1,500,000 eligible men between 19 and 26 which he said would probably dwindle in the future unless changes are made.

He said the present operation would not be adequate to meet the Army's manpower needs if the three-million-man goal is to be reached. Hershey commented:

"I have never felt that we would be able to get three million men without making changes."

He declared that deferments because of age, acceptability, dependency, occupational reasons and for veterans are the main stumbling blocks.

In urging the basic training for youths under 19, the Selective Service director advocated that the inductees be allowed to finish high school before being called for service.

The Army's intention of drafting 300,000 men by March was disclosed yesterday by Chairman Vinson, (D) Ga., after the committee heard secret testimony.

Sheriff's Aides Sent To Halt School Dispute

IRONTON, Sept. 29—Sheriff's deputies were sent to Kitts Hill today to break a strike of pupils who have refused to attend classes this term in protest to the consolidation of school districts in Lawrence County.

Common Pleas Judge James Collier said he was "shocked and surprised" at the disorder growing out of the Kitts Hill-Hanging Rock school dispute, and added that offenders of the court order "would be severely dealt with."

The strike of youngsters resulted when junior and senior high school pupils were transferred to other schools after the consolidation.

Judge Collier heard contempt of court charges against 21 persons accused of violating the injunction restraining them from interfering with operation of the Kitts Hill school.

THROUGH A BURNED-OUT VILLAGE near Seoul, infantrymen of the U.S. Fifth Regimental Combat Team move stealthily as they look for snipers who might possibly be hiding in the ruins.

RUSSIA IS 'POWER-HUNGRY'

New U.S. Pamphlet Tells American Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The State Department today laid U. S. foreign policy before the American people in a primer-style pamphlet declaring that the dispute with Russia "is not a conflict between Capitalism and Communism."

The 100-page, pocket-size brochure, which deals with 38 topics in America's international relations, opens with the point that "there is no longer any real distinction between 'domestic' and 'foreign' affairs."

In a foreword, President Truman explains that the booklet was prepared at his suggestion "to sum up and set down as simply and clearly as possible what we are after in our relations with other governments and their peoples."

The pamphlet declares that never in its history has the United States been free of the threat of "destructive forces" in the pursuit of national interests.

Top UN officials and delegates appear to have reached the conclusion that a sharp differentiation is in order between the military phase on the battlefield and the political arena at Flushing Meadow.

UNLESS A sudden reversal in majority opinion develops, there will be no specific UN directive on smashing final North Korean resistance above the 38th Parallel either from the assembly or Security Council.

Questioned on the probable re-

THE THREAT from Russia, it says, results not from a conflict of political ideologies but from the menace of a "power-hungry government that is bent on spreading its power by force."

Other threatening forces, it adds are "inside the country" and "stem from groups that oppose the national interests."

The booklet discusses the post-war development of difficulties with Russia, efforts at free trade, the Marshall Plan, the new program to rearm the free world and the Korean war.

Touching on the controversial policy toward China, the publication declares that despite the wealth of U. S. aid to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's regime, "the Nationalist government disintegrated, its armies melted away and Chinese Communists took possession of the vacuum."

Armed intervention in support of Chiang "would have meant reversing our history and our character—and risking defeat" as well as "branding the United States as an imperialist power in the minds of the people of Asia."

The item on China closes, however, with a prediction that the Chinese will eventually "free themselves from Soviet domination" partly through the inspiration of U. S. and UN intervention in the Korean war.

Taft, Ferguson On Same Program

LIMA, Sept. 29—Sen. Robert A. Taft and the Democrat who seeks to capture his Senate seat, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, are scheduled to speak from the same platform here tomorrow afternoon.

It will be the first time the two have met during the present campaign. Both have accepted invitations to address the rally of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

From Lima, Ferguson goes to Youngstown for an evening address, while Taft swings up to a Defiance ox-roast and a Negro rally in Toledo.

South Koreans At Parallel Awaiting Crossing Order

'WHOLLY UP TO M'ARTHUR'

No Specific UN Directive Expected On 38th Parallel

FLUSHING MEADOW, Sept. 29—Western delegates at the United Nations said today that the task of driving the North Koreans into surrender is up to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

A leading UN source emphasized that point by declaring the "military business of getting a North Korean surrender is wholly up to MacArthur to any extent necessary, provided it does not invade the political field."

Despite President Truman's intimation that a specific directive for crossing the 38th Parallel in pursuit of fleeing Communists is expected, the present feeling among General Assembly delegations is to "let the military take care of military events in Korea."

Top UN officials and delegates appear to have reached the conclusion that a sharp differentiation is in order between the military phase on the battlefield and the political arena at Flushing Meadow.

UNLESS A sudden reversal in majority opinion develops, there will be no specific UN directive on smashing final North Korean resistance above the 38th Parallel either from the assembly or Security Council.

Questioned on the probable reaction in the assembly in case MacArthur sends the UN forces across the imaginary dividing line, many delegates privately ventured the opinion that practically nobody would raise a rumpus with the possible exception of the Soviet bloc.

Military and civilian observers among numerous delegations believe it would be foolhardy for the UN to tie MacArthur's hands and give the North Koreans opportunity to reorganize leisurely.

2 Are Killed In Collision

Kinnikinnick
Scene Of Crash

Two Kinnikinnick persons were killed late Thursday near their homes when the motorcycle on which they were riding was struck head on by an auto driven by a Kingston man.

State highway patrol men from Chillicothe identified the victims as Jerry Harmount, 15, and Arthur Ogan, 36, both of near Kinnikinnick.

The patrol reported the accident occurred at 7:30 p. m. Thursday on Route 159, just north of the Ross County village.

Patrolmen said the motorcycle, operated by Ogan and carrying Harmount as a passenger, was travelling north on Route 159 when struck head on by an auto operated by Franklin Brown, 34, of Kingston.

Ogan reportedly was thrown against the front of the Brown auto by the impact, while Harmount was thrown to the ground.

ROSS COUNTY Coroner R. E. Olliver said that Ogan died instantly in the crash. Death, he said, was caused by a skull fracture.

Harmount was rushed into Chillicothe hospital, where he died at 8 p. m. of a crushed chest.

Brown was ordered into the court of Municipal Judge E. A. Moats Friday for hearing on an accusation of operating his auto on the wrong side of the road.

The motorist entered a plea of guilty to the accusation and was fined $50 and costs by the city court.

In addition, an accusation of manslaughter has been filed against Brown. Judge Moats (Continued on Page Two)

Cost Of War: 17,220 Casualties

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The Defense Department announced today that there had been a total of 17,220 American casualties in the Korean war through last Friday.

Of these, the department said that there was a total of 2,441 servicemen reported killed. The department listed a total of 11,050 servicemen wounded in action and a total of 3,959 missing in action.

MacArthur's Instructions Anticipated

Allies Mopping Up
In All Sectors

TOKYO, Sept. 29—South Korean troops, supported by U. S. warships, reached the 38th Parallel on the east coast late today, but halted there under orders not to cross the border to North Korea for the present.

A front dispatch from International News Service, War Correspondent Irving Levine, received at 10:41 Friday night, quoted a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman as announcing:

"The Republic of Korea forces were instructed to advance to the 38th Parallel where they were to stop and regroup."

A U. S. embassy source in Korea pointed out that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, under the United Nations directive of June 27, already has the authority to order troops across the parallel "if military considerations require it." The UN commander's decision on this point was not yet announced.

MacArthur's briefing officer in Tokyo said meanwhile there is no evidence that the North Koreans are preparing for any strong defense of their southern border.

THE OFFICER said the only known Communist prepared defenses in the enemy's territory are at Chinnampo, the port for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. But these were prepared some time ago for fear of an Allied amphibious landing in the area, the spokesman added.

Air observers earlier had reported advance units of the South Korean Third Division, racing up the east coast, reached the boundary line late Friday while two U. S. cruisers moved up to a point offshore just below the parallel.

The airmen said they saw artillery fire along a ridge that straddles the border between South and North Korea, but that there was no indication that field gun shells were falling inside North Korean Communist territory.

Levine, in an earlier dispatch Friday night, quoted the air observers as saying the North Korean town of Tangchori, 12 miles above the parallel, was in flames. But it was presumed the fires were (Continued on Page Two)

Man Kills Wife, Neighbor, Self

BOWLING GREEN, Sept. 29—Henry Krebs, 38-year-old Wood County farmer, shot to death his wife and a neighboring farmer early today before ending his own life.

The shootings took place near Custar about 15 miles southwest of here. Sheriff's deputies identified Krebs' victims as his 38-year-old wife, Zulee, mother of six children, and Mike B. Adler, 55, who lives four miles from the Krebs home.

One of Krebs' sons told investigating officers that his father had accused Adler of "running around" with Mrs. Krebs.

LORD'S PRAYER ENDS TALK

MacArthur Weeps As He Gives Seoul To Koreans

SEOUL, Sept. 29—General Douglas MacArthur delivered Seoul back to the South Korean government today and in turn was awarded the Korean Republic's Order of Military Merit for "repelling Communist aggression."

THE CEREMONIES were so emotion-packed that the United Nations commander wept as he led the assemblage in reciting the Lord's Prayer.

General MacArthur, in accepting the Korean award, gave credit for the victory to the men who fell in battle.

"It was the men who lie out there on the slope..."

The history-making event transpired in Seoul's partly wrecked parliament building after MacArthur flew in from Tokyo and made a triumphal entry into the capital, cleared of Red troops little more than a day before.

The 70-year-old supreme commander turned the burned out metropolis over to President Syngman Rhee with a fervent speech in which he bade the South Korean government to exercise "benevolence and justice" rebuilding the country.

Tears streamed down the general's cheeks as he led an awed gathering of several hundred American and South Korean officials in recital of the Lord's

Henry Ford's Widow Is Dead

DETROIT, Sept. 29—Mrs. Clara Bryant Ford, widow of the late Henry Ford, died here early today at the age of 84.

Mrs. Ford, who shared the life of the auto pioneer who became the world's wealthiest industrialist, succumbed to an acute coronary occlusion in Henry Ford hospital, erected by her husband.

She had suffered from a cardiac condition for several years and had been in poor health since the death of her husband in 1947.

Airforce Flier Tests New Chute, Records Fall Of Over 8 Miles

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—An Airforce captain has set a new record for parachute jumping by plunging eight miles from a B-27 bomber.

The Airforce, revealing the feat today, identified the flier as a Capt. Richard V. Wheeler of Watertown, Mass.

Wheeler's 42,449-foot drop was made over Holloman Field, N. M., during tests of a new automatic parachute opening device. The jump bettered by more than 2,000 feet the old record set by Col. W. R. Lovelace seven years ago.

None of the test jumps was designed to set an official record, but were part of a program to prove the workability of the new device.

OFFICIALS SAID the parachute opening gadget is expected to be put in use soon by pilots flying high-altitude, high-speed aircraft.

prayer at the conclusion of his brief address.

FIGHTING STILL raged only four miles away from National Assembly Hall where the ceremony was conducted. Chunks of tinkling glass fell occasionally from the shell-damaged roof of the building as a high wind whipped the ruin-littered capital city.

At the conclusion of his brief address, MacArthur asked the entire assemblage to rise and led the dignitaries present in a recital of the Lord's Prayer. The general's voice was particularly (Continued on Page Two)

Fines Of $200 Slapped Against Scioto Gamblers

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 29—Fines of $200 and costs each slapped on six men by Scioto County Common Pleas Judge Vernon Smith today highlighted the sweeping gambling probe going on in the Portsmouth area.

Earl Cunningham, C. Cropper, Virgil Akers, Charles Dixon, Clarence Flickering and Carl Glick pleaded guilty to charges of operating race horse handbooks.

Six others indicted in a slot machine inquiry will be arraigned Monday. Two of them, Louis Dister and Robert Taylor, were identified as personal enemies in a war to control slot machines—one which led to the investigation.

Sentence was delayed on Earl Waddell, Lucasville restaurant operator, offering the possibility that Judge Smith intends to hear charges in other slot machine indictments before deciding on a penalty.

County commissioners rejected a grand jury suggestion that another deputy be assigned to the sheriff so that the latter could devote more time to investigating gambling.

The commissioners said sufficient funds are not on hand and Sheriff Burl Justice should solve his own problems.

Reporter Wonders If 'Peace-Mongering' Really Succeeds

By INEZ ROBB
INS Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—When word came the other day that peace in Korea might break out at any moment, I thumbed through the dictionary and the thesaurus to see what I was really in for if the peace-mongering succeeded.

There has been so little peace in my time that my generation can be forgiven if it is a little uncertain about what happens if the world is caught off base someday and peace declared.

Peace, says the dictionary, is "freedom from war or hostilities; an agreement between contending parties to abstain from further hostilities; freedom from strife or dissension; freedom from mental disturbance."

Boiled down, peace is a sort of four freedoms: Freedom from war, hostilities, dissension and mental disturbance. I would like to buy that, with honor, naturally.

The thesaurus, like the Greeks, had even further words for it. It defined peace as "tranquillity, calm, quietude, equanimity, composure, rest, repose, harmony, friendliness and amity."

It sounds too good to be true. In fact, it sounds out of this world and probably is. As of now, I could take a little tranquillity and harmony straight, without either cream or sugar.

In the present state of the world, even my nerves have nerves, and I do not regard myself as any exception to the general rule.

"Quietude, composure and amity" sounds like a beautiful, beautiful pipe dream rather than conditions once common to life in grandpaw's day.

Blessed are the peace makers, and if they only succeed in returning us to the status quo or cold war, we are still ahead of the game and with every cause to be grateful.

I am too wise in my generation to expect a peace that embraces "calm and repose." I will settle for one that will honorably end the shooting war, get our men out of those cold and menacing Korea mountains before the onset of winter and give Uncle Sam a chance to order up the new knuckle-dusters he needs in this uneasy world.

Even when peace breaks out of Korea, I am going to make a firm resolve to remind myself every hour on the hour that eternal vigilance and higher taxes are the price of freedom.

And when Uncle mails the next due bill to me, with an increase of twenty or thirty percent tacked on, I am not going to yowl like a stuck pig. I am going to pay up like a little lady and tell Uncle I am willing to patch my old minks for the next fifty years if necessary.

Be it further resolved that I am not only going to keep an eye on my congressman, but I am actually going to learn the duffer's name and start chucking letters in his direction if he starts chiselling on defense appropriations or weeping to disband the Army so that every soldier boy can come home to his voting mom.

The greatest Army in our history was wrecked in 1945-46

by politicking congressmen who invented out of whole cloth as a vote-getting issue the lie that mothers, wives and sweethearts were about to march by the millions on Washington to demand the release of their men from Army, Navy and Air corps.

I have never yet met an American woman who wrote a single (or married) congressman demanding that her man be sent home at the end of World War II. That issue was a political fabrication by the ward-healers when peace timidly broke out in '45.

Be it further resolved that I am ashamed of myself that I amputees of World War II have beaten me to the Red Cross as blood donors in the present crisis.

And be it also noted that when peace comes this time the undersigned is going to get off the seat of her pants and do a little something actively calculated to make it stick this time. And I hope all the punks who hoarded sugar and nylons during the Korean fracas drop dead!

MacArthur's Instructions Anticipated

While the South Korean Third Division's spearheads rammed up to the border, the bulk of the division's troops moved into Chungmumjin at 5 p. m. Friday, the airman said.
Chungmumjin lies five miles south of the parallel. The South Korean division had dashed northward 73 miles along the east coast from recaptured Ulsan through Samchok in 24 hours to reach the border.
There was no indication up until a late hour Friday night as to whether Allied ground forces would receive orders to continue their pursuit of the beaten foe onto North Korean territory.

SUCH INSTRUCTIONS were awaited as American and South Korean troops closed in for the final "kill" against the remnants of North Korea's once-mighty invasion army.
Thronging flocks of Allied planes incessantly blasted and raked wildly fleeing Red units wherever they could be found.
Above liberated Seoul, U. S. Marines closely pursued Communist troops retreating from the capital along the road north to Uijongbu, 18 miles south of the Parallel.

Several hundred Red soldiers, seeking to shake off the pursuit, counter-attacked the Leathernecks. The resultant fighting raged only four miles away from the capitol building where MacArthur was handing over Seoul to the South Korean government.
Three American Army divisions, meanwhile, rammed lengthening armor-tipped spearheads toward Korea's southwest coast as they chopped into ever smaller segments the thousands of Red troops trapped in that area.
An Eighth Army field headquarters communique, issued at 7:30 Friday evening, announced that U. S. Second Division forces had sent one column dashing to within 11 miles of the west coast.

This force drove twelve miles northwest from the captured former enemy base of Chonju and seized 11, 11 miles east-south-east of Kusan. The latter major port lies on the Yellow Sea along the south side of the mouth of the Kum river.

American 24th Division troops to the north dashed 21 miles southwest from liberated Taejon in little more than 12 hours to teach the rail-highway center of Nonsan. This placed the Americans 24 miles northeast of Kusan and 23 miles southeast of Taechon, also a Yellow Sea port.
Along the south wing of the triple-pronged mopping up drive into the Korean southwest pocket, American 25th Division forces rammed through Kwangju to Piri, 24 miles inland from the west coast.

Nine-Year-Old County Jersey Given Award

A "Ton of Gold" certificate has been awarded a registered Jersey cow owned by Wendel Shaw and Nina Thompson of New Holland. The award went to their cow Jolly Bindle Sybil, which has produced 2,174 pounds of butterfat—more than a ton—in four years. The certificate was presented by the American Jersey Cattle Club, from its headquarters in Columbus.
During the test period, Jolly Bindle Sybil produced more than two and one half times as much butterfat as the average dairy cow in the United States. All her tests were checked by both Ohio State university and the Jersey cattle club.
Most dairy cows are discarded before they have completed three years of production. The long life and high rate of production recorded by this Jersey are goals the dairy industry is striving to reach. This cow completed her present record at nine years of age.

impressive as he came to the closing passage:
"But deliver us from evil, for Thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory, Forever and ever."

The UN commander and Rhee then clasped hands, as the South Korean president exclaimed:
"We admire you. We love you as the savior of our race."

In his speech, accepting the capital from the hands of the commander of those who liberated it, Rhee pledged that his government will avoid a policy of revenge. He said the government will distinguish between those who led and those who followed the Communist aggression, saying:
"THERE WILL BE no witch hunts. Every former Communist has but to confess his sins to be forgiven, that he may work for the good of the Korean people."

MacArthur, making his third visit to the Korean war theater since the Red invasion began June 25, proclaimed that United Nations forces "have liberated this ancient capital city of Korea."
Seoul, he declared, "has been freed from the despotism of Communist rule."
The general pointed out that "53 nations of the earth, one up in righteous wrath and indignation and pledged their full effort" to throw back the Communist aggression.

He termed this concerted action a "spiritual revolution."

Dr. Montgomery Named To State Advisory Board

Dr. E. L. Montgomery of Circleville has been appointed a member of a newly created state-wide Military Advisory Committee to coordinate military and civilian needs for doctors.

Machinery to bring about the coordination is being set up by the Ohio State Medical Association, according to Dr. E. O. Swartz of Cincinnati, president of the association.

The Military Advisory Committee, composed of 12 physicians, will function as part of the association's Committee on Emergency Medical Service, which has existed for several years.

Civil defense activities and responsibilities will be carried on by a Committee on Civil Defense.

MEMBERS of the Military Advisory Committee will have the responsibility of securing necessary professional and biographical data regarding physicians in their respective areas regarding civilian needs and advising the armed forces and Selective Service as to the availability or essentiality of physicians for military or civilian service. Dr. Robert Conrad of Wilmington was named chairman.

Such information will be obtained through personal investigation and through consultation with the Military Advisory Committees of the various county medical societies. A request to each county medical society to name such a committee will be sent out in the near future by Dr. Swartz.

against the march of imperialistic Communism."

"It reflects an invincible union of men and ideals against which no material weapons could long prevail," said MacArthur, "and while inevitably force must meet force, it offers the hope for the ultimate peaceful triumph of that spiritual quality without which the human mind cannot produce so much and enduring ideas.
"It is through the spirit that we must save the flesh."
Turning to Rhee, the UN commander declared he was restoring Seoul to the Korean republic, then added:
"IT IS MY fervent hope that a beneficent providence will give you and all of your public officials the wisdom and strength to meet your perplexing problems in a spirit of benevolence and justice, that from the travail of the past there may emerge a new and hopeful dawn for the people of Korea."

After the recital of the Lord's Prayer, MacArthur turned again to President Rhee, saying "my officers and I will now resume our military duties and leave you and your government to the discharge of civil responsibility."

"IN THE OTHER 55, they all need some little things such as replacing cracked windows, more complete equipment of some sort."
The patrolman explained that most of the bus drivers have a good many years of experience, and no driver has less than two years of experience.
"I found some buses which will have to be replaced next year because they are just about worn out," Wells added.

County School Buses Get OK From Patrolman

Pickaway County school buses were reported in "good shape" Friday following a rigid safety inspection by the state highway patrol.

Patrolman Clyde Wells reported that he has inspected all 69 buses being operated in the county and has found "none which must be taken from the road immediately."

"I did find 14 of the buses to be unsatisfactory, however," Wells said. "Those buses need repairs immediately but still are serviceable."

The patrolman returned a clean bill on the remaining 55 school buses, although pointing out that some minor repairs are in order for every one of the vehicles.

"Biggest fault I could find with the vehicles," Wells said, "was lack of proper exhaust systems, poor tires and lack of proper floor coverings."

"IN THE OTHER 55, they all need some little things such as replacing cracked windows, more complete equipment of some sort."

The patrolman explained that most of the bus drivers have a good many years of experience, and no driver has less than two years of experience.

"I found some buses which will have to be replaced next year because they are just about worn out," Wells added.

No Specific UN Directive Expected On 38th Parallel

into fighting units above the 38th Parallel.

There is an air of mounting expectation at UN as last battles are being fought in Korea. The battle for shaping a UN Korean peace program is slated to begin at Lake Success later today when the key political committee gets down to brass tacks on its detailed work of drafting a blueprint for the assembly.

This 60-member group will have before it a resolution prepared by Britain in consultation with the United States and several small nations. It proposes a nine-power UN Korean commission charged with the task of preparing elections over an extended period for a unified and independent country.

Mayor Braves All For Big Show

To make sure Columbus does not remain unaware that Circleville plans big doings in October, Mayor Thurman I. Miller plans to invade the capital city soon with placards announcing Circleville Pumpkin Show, Oct. 18-21.

He apparently cares not that the big city to the north probably has an ordinance forbidding the tacking up of placards and posters.

Woman Cited As Pickpocket

Deputy Sheriff Charles Radcliff travelled to Gallipolis Thursday to take a woman into custody for Columbus authorities.

Radcliff said he arrested the woman in connection of an $85 theft from Jim Cassidy of Circleville, reported last month in Columbus.

The deputy said the local man reported his pocket was picked by the woman and a companion from Circleville. Accusations will be filed in the capital city.

The New York Tribune was the first American newspaper to pass under corporate control.

In addition, Vinson announced that the Army will order into service 3200 doctors and 1400 dentists in the next six months. Most of these will be professionals who received their schooling at government expense during World War II but saw little service.

FOOD EXPORT SLUMP

FARM crop exports in the government's fiscal year 1950, ended June 30, were lower in value than agricultural imports. This had not been the case since 1942.

In the last fiscal year imports increased 6 percent, whereas the export cut back from the 1949 figure was 21 percent. Before the war U. S. agricultural exports had been declining, and they fell off more sharply in the war years because the seas were infested by German submarines.

But in the four years after the war the U. S. was a heavy exporter of food, in which wheat and flour topped the list. The U. S. government paid for most of these exports.

The decline in exports in 1950 is regarded as evidence that Europe is producing more bread grains for its own use. Slump in exports of American wheat and flour topped 47 percent. The result is that cotton has again become this country's No. 1 export crop.

Principal agricultural imports are sugar, coffee, wool, rubber, cocoa, hides and skins. These have mainly an indirect effect on consumption of subsidized domestic farm products.

FOR REAL INTELLIGENCE

CLASSIC example of how not to run an intelligence service is the case of the enlisted man who detected the approach of Japanese planes toward Pearl Harbor, to whom no attention was paid. Intelligence reports that get buried in lower echelons, instead of being passed on to leaders forthwith, are of no use in emergencies.

The chain of command functions well enough in some operations, but as concerns intelligence, it works against results. An intelligence report, when it reaches a general or an admiral, is worse than useless if it is garbled and out of date.

Rear Admiral Zacharias, head of naval intelligence has made vigorous criticism of intelligence methods. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who succeeds Admiral Hillenkoetter as head of Central Intelligence, ought to keep in mind that "too little and too late" applies in intelligence reports as well as to troops, ships, planes and guns.

When Korean hostilities are ended and Congress gets around to investigating various phases of our being caught out there, the failure of intelligence, both in Japan and at Washington, ought to be a prime subject for elucidation. Either intelligence was poor, or top-level strategists, which would include those who made policies at the White House and State Department, did not know how to evaluate and make use of it.

Perhaps a man is quieter as he grows older because he has more to keep quiet about.

MARCH OF EVENTS

Half Million Red Troops Now Massed in Manchuria | Red China Interference in Korea Soon Seen Unlikely

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Army Intelligence says the Chinese Communists now have 500,000 troops massed in Manchuria but that it isn't likely they will enter the Korean war within the next six months.

The reason is that Mao Tze-tung, the Chinese dictator, has informed Moscow that he will not send his troops against the Americans until they have achieved "parity" with U. S. weapons.

That means that the Russians must equip the Chinese divisions with the latest World War II and post-World War II weapons before they will move, and this cannot be done in less than six months. If it can be done at all.

The Chinese fought their own civil war almost entirely with Japanese rifles and artillery. Part of the weapons were accumulated piecemeal before and during the big war, and a great quantity was turned over to the Chinese by the Russians when the Japs surrendered in Manchuria.

The Russians have proved in Korea that they can pour European arms into the Far East in quantity, but Mao's order would be much the biggest they have yet tried to fill. The intelligence report, however, is that Moscow has agreed to Mao's terms.

● HIGH COST OF DEFENSE—Those who want to know what happened to the billions of dollars appropriated for defense since V-J day can find part of the answer in rising prices.

Rep. Harry R. Sheppard (D) California, supplied some very convincing figures to the House. Here are a few:

Before World War II, it cost $150 a year to feed a soldier. Now it costs $365. Clothing and equipment for each service man costs $377. Ten years ago they cost $122.

Mao Tze-tung

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The Viet-minh government in French Indo-China must move fast now or it will lose its opportunity to establish a Soviet state in that country. As long as the fighting in Korea was uncertain, Soviet China could hold off, awaiting results and playing for its seat in the United Nations by encouraging the American State Department to believe that a deal could be made. Now that it is certain that the 38th Parallel will be reached by General MacArthur's forces, the Communist groups in various Asiatic countries will begin to doubt the power and authority of Soviet Russia.

The Russians regard the word as a weapon of war. Jacob Malik's speeches before the Security Council were munitions for strengthening the revolutionary forces in Asia. The fact that Malik could speak as he did on American soil meant something different in Asia from what it did in the Western World.

In America and Europe, it is understood that the United Nations is a free forum, enjoying extraterritorial privileges, and that the United States has no greater rights and privileges before it than any other member of the Security Council of the General Assembly. While Malik spoke as a representative of his country, he enjoyed the immunities provided by the charter.

In Asia, such fine distinctions are not normal to their experience. Just as no Asiatic, without Western experience, can understand our freedom in reference to our President and other public officials, so Malik's vituperations of the United States, while on American soil, implied weakness on our part. It showed that Russia felt that it was superior to the United States. When to that was added the appearance of physical weakness against such a country as Korea, the assumption was that the United States had become degenerate, as the Russians say we are, and that the Western world was a push-over in a war.

Then came General MacArthur's victories. Friends of mine of long standing, who have just returned from China, Formosa and the Philippines, have told me that the change of attitude was immediate. In fact, Chiang Kai-shek has had difficulties with his guerrillas in China who believe that now is the time to strike. Similarly in the Philippines, the Huks, who have been waiting for the Chinese Communists to take Formosa and then attack the Philippines, are discouraged.

It is for this reason that Ho Chi-minh, the head of the Viet-minh Communists in Indo-China, is impelled to move as swiftly and as forcibly as he can, expecting assistance from Mao Tze-tung of China. Should the Korean war be over, the American forces now engaged there could in alarming numbers be shipped and flown to Indo-China. He would prefer to effect his revolution there before this can actually happen.

The defeat of Russian and Indian efforts to bring about the recognition of Soviet China by the United Nations is a whole some factor in this situation. As long as the United Nations will not recognize changes in control of a country effected by either war or revolution, the expansion of the Soviet world will be arrested. Change by revolution and civil war can be a subterfuge for actual conquest of a country by Soviet Russia.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

PERRY laughed at Philip's and Sanna's delight in inviting Anne and Adam to lunch. She went back down to the telephone. Anne answered immediately and Perry passed on the invitation. Anne gave a little cry of delight.

"I was dying to see what sort of people you were living with, and how they were treating you," she admitted frankly. "On account of because if they aren't being extra-special swell to you, you're coming straight back home with us, do you hear me?"

"I do, and the hotel walls are so thin probably half the guest-list hears you, too," Perry laughed and gave them instructions, and then stood for a long moment after the connection had been broken, staring at the telephone, her heart beating loudly.

So now she was to come face to face with Adam. She had known that it was inevitable. It could not be otherwise, since Adam was married to her beloved sister. But she had hoped for more time than this. More time to put her love for him out of her heart and to face the thought that he was her brother-in-law, and could never be anything more. But the moment was here and she must face it. She must grasp her courage with all the strength she possessed, so that neither Adam nor Anne could ever suspect.

She went back to her patient and forced herself to be outwardly gay and matter-of-fact, and when at last she heard the sound of their car in the drive, Philip laughed and said, "Run along, do! I'd like to meet them later."

"They'll want to meet you, too," Perry assured him, and sped down the stairs and out into the warm sunshine.

The car she had known so well, and in which she had ridden so many times with Adam, was just coming to a halt on the cement apron beyond the porte-cochere, and Anne, seeing Perry, gave a little childish cry of delight and tumbled out, racing to fling herself into Perry's arms.

Adam grinned and waited, and when the sisters' first excitement at seeing each other again had ebbed a little, he said warmly, "Hello, Perry. You're looking wonderful."

Matter-of-factly he bent his head and kissed her, and Perry's heart gave a wild, upward leap and fell flat on its silly face. And to disguise her emotion, she caught Anne by the shoulders and turned her about, eyeing her with pretended sternness.

"What, no black eyes or broken bones? I thought you said he was abusing you."

Anne laughed, and the look she gave Adam was so warm and sweet and intimate that Perry felt guilty at having seen it.

"Oh, the brute's smart enough to beat me where it doesn't show," she caroled gaily, and turned to look out over the rolling lawn, tree-dotted; the great mounds of

Casanova, who certainly should have known what he was talking about, observed, "An amateur can start a love affair with a woman, but only a connoisseur can break it off." Also discussing love, the cynic Voltaire remarked, "There always is one woman whom fate has destined for us. If we miss her, we are saved."

The sun was just rising over the African hills, according to Edward Ryan, when a famous banker unwittingly passed two hungry lions hiding in the jungle underbrush. "He looks like a tasty morsel," said the younger lion, smacking his lips. "What do you say?" "Skip it," counseled the older lion. "Nobody can put the bite on a banker before ten o'clock in the morning."

flowering shrubbery and the glimpse of the perennial garden beyond. "Hi, this is really something! Migosh, suppose they could use a new kitchen-maid? No wonder you came here to work."

Sanna was in the doorway, smiling, eager, exquisitely lovely in a soft blue crepe frock, her hair swirled into a smart and becoming coiffure, her eyes eager and warm.

"Sanna, this is my sister, Anne," said Perry proudly, and saw the two smile at each other with the beginning of friendship. "And my brother-in-law, Adam—Dr. and Mrs. Forrest. Anne, Mrs. Ellender, my patient's wife."

"I'm so delighted you could come and so very happy to meet you," said Sanna warmly, and there was complete and convincing sincerity in her voice and in her eyes. "But you haven't come to take Perry away, I hope. We couldn't get along without her."

Anne laughed. "Just as long as we know she's properly appreciated, she can stay," she said lightly. "She's a pretty special person and we have to be sure she's happy and well cared for."

"If we're neglecting her in any way, you point it out to us and we'll mend our ways," Sanna promised gaily. And then as a car turned in at the drive, she said eagerly, "Oh, there's Jay. I told them to lay a place for him, because I was going to make him stay if he came in time."

Jay got out of the car, looking with quick, admiring interest at Anne and then at Adam, and Sanna said eagerly, "Oh, Jay, isn't this wonderful? Perry's sister and her husband have come to lunch. Mrs. Forrest, Dr. McKenzie—and Dr. Forrest."

Perry watched as the two men shook hands, taking each other's measure, and she knew instinctively they liked each other at sight. She was so shaken and confused at seeing Anne and Adam like this that she had a sort of confused impression of a lot of laughter and chatter, and then they were in the house, and Sanna was saying warmly, "Perry, take Dr. and Mrs. Forrest into the living-room and have a little visit with them. I'll go up to Philip with Jay, and then we'll have lunch."

Anne looked about the big, luxuriously appointed living-room with its wide picture windows framing magnificent views, and as she turned, she nodded, awed and impressed.

"Now why the heck didn't I take up nursing so I could spend my declining years in such luxury as this?" she mused.

Perry laughed and hugged her.

"I resent that 'declining years' crack," she said sternly. "I'm exactly two years older than you are, my gal. And don't ever let her tell you anything different, Adam."

"I promise I won't," said Adam lightly.

They chatted eagerly and gaily of the hospital; of friends; of things that had happened. And some of the breathless panic and the soreness went out of Perry's heart. She could dare to look at Adam now and not fear she would betray herself. She could think of him as Anne's husband, not her own beloved, with less pain. And she clenched her hands tightly and gave silent eloquent thanks that she was "getting over" Adam.

When lunch was announced, Sanna and Jay joined them and all went out to the dining-room where a really superlative luncheon was served. The talk was brisk and gay, and Perry was content to sit silent and listen and watch.

She looked at Adam and then at Jay, and a strange thing happened. Suddenly she saw Adam as he really was: short, stockily built, almost cherubic—no figure of glamour and romance. Just a pleasant, mentally alert, attractively homely young man. She was so caught by the suddenness of her clear vision that her eyes widened a little and she did not know she was staring at Adam, almost in consternation, until suddenly, beside her, Jay said softly under cover of some gay anecdote Anne was relating, "Mouth's open, Miss Kimbro."

She closed it with a snap and turned her head to look at Jay. She was so wide-eyed, so bemused by her sudden discovery that she was no longer in love with Adam, that for a moment she could not mask the look in her eyes, nor tear her gaze away from Jay's. Watching that look, Jay's own eyes widened just a little and she saw him glance at Adam, then at Anne, and then back at Perry. But by that time Perry had herself somewhat under control and could lift her fork without her hand shaking.

She had no consciousness of what she ate, and the rest of the luncheon was a blur to her, as was the half-hour or so that Anne and Adam spent with Philip, while Jay and Perry and Sanna hovered about, noting with delight the animation in Philip's eyes and the faint trace of unaccustomed color.

When at last Anne and Adam tore themselves reluctantly away, Perry walked out to the car with them, and Anne said eagerly, "Oh, Perry, what a grand job. I love the Ellenders. She's the most beautiful thing I ever saw and it's obvious they adore each other. What a filthy, rotten break—won't he ever be well again?"

Adam said quietly, tenderly: "No doctor nowadays, precious, risks saying any case is 'hopeless.' There are too many medical miracles taking place. But I'd say Ellender's a lucky chap to have McKenzie looking after him. I like McKenzie, Perry; he's got what it takes."

Perry felt her face glowing with color as she bade them good-bye and saw the car drive off.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

Congress is home taking bows on the splendid condition of the nation.

The way they divide the honors is, the Republicans say "it would be worse if it wasn't for us" and the Democrats say "it would be better if it wasn't for them."

But we do not anticipate any difficulty in reelecting our boy. He's not one of those fellows who always is shouting for economy in government and more attention to domestic affairs.

Of course custom dictates that members of Congress come home and campaign for office, but it seems such a waste of time with the CIO-AFL scratch sheet already out.

Our own idea is that they stay in Washington and we cast one ballot for Phil Murray and let him notify the winners.

This would save all the expense of campaigning, polling places, election night parties and the morning-after-aspirin.

'School Of Politics' Urges Women Take More Active Parts In Every Election

Warren Woman Leads Forum

Importance of women political workers during election time was stressed in a forum in Circleville Memorial Hall Thursday afternoon.

Conducted by Mrs. Jean Blair of Warren, the "school of politics" stressed not only the need for women to get out and vote, but the necessity of them helping to get out other voters as well as to take an interest in party precinct work.

Mrs. Blair, who conducts political schools for women throughout a 21-county area, stressed the importance of precinct workers in all elections, national as well as local.

She told her audience that both political parties have similar structures which she described as "shaped like a pyramid."

The base of the pyramid, she said, was made up of the precinct committee men and women. The state central committee came next in importance and the national committee formed the point of the pyramid.

She recommended that in the 1950 elections precinct committee chairmen avail themselves of ten assistants each. Mrs. Blair told her listeners that Republicans lost their last election in Ohio by the equivalent of one voter in each precinct.

She gave the ABCs of precinct workers as: Call on your neighbors, serve your neighbors, remember birthdays and anniversaries; keep informed and don't argue politics.

Mrs. Blair displayed a sample ballot and instructed her listeners in voting details.

The "school of politics" was preceded by a covered dish luncheon attended by about 125 women. It was sponsored by the Pickaway County Republican Women's Club.

Mrs. Ralph Hosler, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. Eugene Borror at the piano when she presented three musical selections.

Mrs. Beryl Stevenson, president, introduced Mrs. H. O. Caldwell who presented the wives of several Republican candidates, each of whom gave short talks. They were Mrs. Fred Tipton, Mrs. H. E. Louis, Mrs. George Marshall, Mrs. Francis Douglas, Mrs. George Bender, Mrs. Ted Brown, Mrs. Roger Tracy and Mrs. Don Ebricht.

Speakers' table decorations included roses in a tall silver vase as center arrangement. Low cornucopias of dahlias and chrysanthemums and evergreen streamers completed the Fall motif.

Jeffrey Gordon Is Honored

Mrs. Leon Gordon of 125 Reber avenue entertained at a birthday party given to honor her son, Jeffrey on his eighth birthday Tuesday.

Guests included Flo, Jo and Elaine Goldschmidt, Cheryl Evans, Larry and Russell Frankel, Gary Agin, Joe Rooney, Bobby Hedges, Stuart Clark, Danny and Terry Robinson, Gary George, Judy Barnhill, Melody Shea, Marguerite Sims, Chuckie Carle, Tommy and Joann Vaughan and Freddy and Larry Gordon.

Little Change In Ratio Seen

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The Federal Crop Reporting Board publishes its monthly report on farm prices late today.

Although the official report is kept under lock and key until that time, it is believed that the parity ratio, which marks the relationship between what farmers pay for production and what they receive for the things they produce, will show little change from last month.

The August parity ration was favorable to farmers, at three points higher than the base year.

Cook, Redman To See Duty
Against Wilmington Crew

Two new faces have been added to the Circleville Tiger starting lineup for its South Central Ohio League opener Friday here against Wilmington's Hurricane.

New additions to the CHS starting force will be Harry Redman, 170-pound guardsman, and Jim Cook, 185-pound right halfback.

Cook, new to the Red and Black athletic scene this year, is to start at the blocking back spot to replace Phil Heise, who has been benched with a wrenched knee.

Redman, formerly a replacement at tackle for the Tigers, will replace Lowell Thomas in the lineup.

Thomas suffered a badly fractured nose last week during Circleville's trip to Lancaster and was ordered to the hospital early this week to have the proboscis put back together.

COACH STEVE Brudinski said both injured boys will dress for the Wilmington tussle, although neither probably will see action.

In addition, Quarterback Jerry Rooney will be going into the league-opener under a handicap. Rooney suffered a cracked rib on his right side—his throwing side—early in last week's contest against the Golden Gales. However, he probably will be played throughout the Friday tilt.

As for the rest of the regular team, Coach Brudinski pointed out that they are in fine shape for the game.

The team will travel to Warrenton at about 5:30 p. m. Friday for a special pre-game diet offered by the Circleville Booster Club, and will make its first appearance before the fans at about 7:15 p. m. when it will warm up on the field.

Circleville football fans can expect brisk, clear weather for the CHS-Wilmington game. Weatherman John Smith predicted early Friday that the weather will be "good" and that temperatures will hover near the 50-degree mark.

As in its opening season game against Holy Rosary of Columbus, the Tigers again will face a weight disadvantage in meeting the Hurricane.

Rosary's beef proved ineffective against the lightning swift attack of the CHS'ers as the Tigers rolled up an impressive 45-13 margin over the invaders.

HOWEVER, the Rosaryites were easy meat for the Tigers for two reasons—they were unable to move their beef and they lacked experience.

Neither of the factors is expected to be missing in telling quantities from the Hurricane team which will invade here.

The Hurricane will have nearly 10,000-per-man advantage in the fracas, while it reportedly is capable of moving about with agility.

In addition, 12 lettermen received the Middletown Middies a chance for a little revenge. Last year, Toledo Libbey inflicted the only loss suffered by the Middies by a 13-0 count and the Butler County eleven will be out to reverse it.

Other top attractions include Cleveland Cathedral Latin at Massillon; Springfield vs. Portsmouth; Hamilton at Cincinnati Elder; and Dayton Kiser at Steubenville.

On tap Saturday night is a Canton contest between McKinley's Bulldogs and Canton Timken, and a Youngstown battle between Chaney and South.

Junior Tigers
Suffer 27-20
Loss To Gales

Circleville high school's junior football team suffered a 27-20 defeat at the hands of the Lancaster Golden Gales juniors here Thursday afternoon.

The local junior gridders were outwitted in the fracas, although using Coach Dick West's sharp attacks to good advantage to trail by the seven-point deficit in the high-scoring encounter.

Starring for the Tiger juniors in the match were Paul Hill, Ronnie Bennington, Ted Wilkes and Tom Elsea in the backfield. Lancaster opened the game by grabbing the ball at about mid-field and staging a continuous march over the locals into the end zone.

Circleville retaliated shortly afterwards when a Bennington-to-Skinner pass was completed for about 15 yards into the end zone.

LANCASTER again took the initiative after the kickoff to romp to two more TDs over the locals, while the junior Red and Blackers pulled through with another TD pass into the arms of Wilkes to whittle the lead down to 20-13.

The visitors again dominated play after the kickoff to powerhouse their way into scoring territory, while the game ended with Paul Hill totting the leather into the end zone for Circleville from about three yards out.

Circleville's junior team scored on two of its three conversion attempts during the match, once on a run by Hill and again on a pass.

Hatters End Season With Tourney Win

Circleville Top Hat softball team won the Nelsonville invitational tournament championship Tuesday night with a 4-3 victory over McArthur.

The Hatters ended their 1950 season with the victory. Other feats by the team this season was winning the district title in Chillicothe and advancing into the semifinals of the state tournament.

Hatter softballers opened its final test with a single in the first frame, although McArthur deadlocked the score with a single in the third.

Bob Moon, Hatter shortstop, rapped out a homerun in the fourth frame with one man aboard to give his team a two-run edge and collect the only extra-base hit of the game.

AGAIN McARTHUR retaliated, however, knotting the count at 3-all in the fifth with a brace of runs. The Top Hat crew broke into the win with a single in the sixth.

Pitcher Kenneth Reed was credited with the win, having allowed McArthur only three hits while whiffing 11.

Winter Kill Of Wheat May Be Curbed By Use Of Potash

Best Cites Missouri Experiment

Yield Boosted By Chemical

Winter killing of wheat can be greatly reduced by using potash during seeding time, Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, declared Friday.

He said that tests made by Missouri College of Agriculture agronomists have brought this conclusion.

These agronomists found that grain yield losses were high when the plants were starving for potash, says the agent. Losses were low when the soil supplied plenty of potash for the grain. Best reported:

"George Smith, of the university's soils department, reports that in one test about 95 percent of the wheat stand was lost through winter killing, when potash was left out of the fertilizer. But adding potash to nitrogen-phosphate fertilizer cut down the losses and the wheat yield averaged 20 bushels per acre."

"Oats yield were boosted as much as 20 bushels an acre on the same soil where the fertilizer contained potash. Barley yields were 33.2 bushels when potash was added, compared with 18.2 bushels when it was left out."

"THE AGRONOMISTS report that balanced feeding also pays off on legume stands seeded in small grains. Red clover hay yields were boosted nearly 1,000 pounds per acre when potash was added to phosphate at the Missouri experimental farm near Columbia.

"The need for potash is heightened by improved crop yields which are removing greater quantities of this nutrient from the soil.

"When soils are acid and receive little nitrogen or phosphate fertilizer, the soil minerals can frequently supply enough potash for the low crop yields obtained. But when lime, nitrogen and phosphate are used, the soil's potash supply does not supply sufficient quantities to meet the needs of high yielding crops. It may then be necessary to use fertilizer carrying potash."

IRON MAIDEN of Nuremburg, medieval torture device, is one of many curiosities and oddities to be seen in Circleville Sunday, when Pickaway chapter, Disabled American Veterans, brings a touring exhibit of the late Robert Ripley's "Believe It or Not" museum pieces to Court and Main streets. The exhibit will be free to the public.

Sheriff's Crew To Be Given New Uniforms

Visitors to Circleville Pumpkin Show will see at least one feature that does not appear on the program.

It will be new uniforms worn by officials of Pickaway County sheriff's department.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the new uniforms are expected to arrive in time for the annual street extravaganza.

County commissioners approved purchase of the new clothing last Spring. Radcliff described them as blue shirts and jackets and gray trousers with a blue serge stripe down the sides. Four uniforms were ordered, he said.

The sheriff said the uniforms will facilitate law enforcement by his deputies, because:

"People just plain pay more attention to an official in uni-

No Gasoline Rationing In Sight, Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The government assured the nation's motorists today that there will be no gasoline rationing during the current emergency.

Interior Department sources, however, said there "shortly" will be a "directive" to the petroleum industry to cut down the quality—reduce the octane—in gasoline available for motorists.

Officials said that motorists will have plenty of "regular" gas, but must do without the "high-powered" kind.

The pending curbs on the production of quality gasoline for civilian use, including commercial air travel, are being forced on the government because of a reported "serious" shortage of high-octane aviation fuels and their ingredients.

One official said that although the shortage is critical, the government feels it can persuade greater production of airplane gas through better distribution of the things that go into high-octane.

The Korean war itself is not expected to drain current supplies and production dry. But should it flare into World War III rationing, would go into effect immediately, they say.

Smoke Is Hard On Asthmatics

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—Persons suffering from asthma, heart and respiratory ailments were warned today that there is danger for them in the Canadian smoke pall hanging over much of the Eastern United States.

Washington Health Officer Daniel Seckinger said that smoke is bad for folks with these kinds of ills. It's not the Canadian smoke that the Eastern U.S. population is in danger of inhaling, but local industrial and chimney smoke trapped beneath the thick layer from Canadian forest fires and heavy clouds.

Senator Likes Flowers More Than Tomato

MASSILLON, Sept. 29—As far as U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft is concerned one large basket of flowers in the hand is worth more than one ripe tomato in the chest any day.

At least that's what "Mr. Republican" suggested last night when he revealed that he was "lattered by a juicy tomato while talking to a crowd in Waynesburg Wednesday."

Taft said the tomato struck him with enough force to feel like "a vigorous push" but that he did not see who hurled it.

The Ohio senator pointed out that he was also presented with a large basket of flowers in the same town, and that it helped make up for the tomato.

"Besides," he added, "it didn't splatter much."

Special Feature Is Scheduled

A special feature of this year's Circleville Pumpkin Show will be a performance by the Bailes Bros. and the Echo Valley Boys.

Program Director James P.

Shea said the program will be in "Grand Ole Opry" style and will be presented from a platform at Scioto and Main street.

Shea said the feature will begin at about 6:30 p. m. on Thursday of Pumpkin Show week, Oct. 18-21. The program is sponsored jointly, the director said, by Circleville merchants.

LOOKING AHEAD

With Charles Weidinger

Women as the buyers of the nation have a highly developed sense of values. Years of bargain hunting have conditioned them so they can see through gaudy wrappings to the essential value of the product. That is why much of the increased income being earned by women in business nowadays is set aside to purchase annuities, endowments, and other forms of life insurance protection. With business women generally retiring at an earlier age than men, their need for such protection is very great and has resulted in the number of women owning life insurance policies today being twice the pre-war figure. The average policy, too, is for a considerably larger amount. Why not talk your policy over with me today?
